

Glenfarclas Family
Casks 1988 (Cask
#434)

53.4%

Quite earthy, with orris root, burlap, and dunnage warehouse notes. Distinctly meaty—Bovril (beef stock)—then cedary. This untamed edge—think Mortlach or Benrinnes—dominates the palate, but the cask (a refill butt) isn't overstating its presence. There's espresso on the finish. Here's Glenfarclas taking a ramble on the wild side. If your preference is for more robust styles, then look no further. £345

—Vol. 23, #3