

Whisky

ADVOCATE

90

Glenfarclas 50 year old

41.1%

Just pause for a moment before tasting. 50 years. What has happened in the world during that time? How have you changed? What has it done to the whisky? Added a quiet elegance. It brings to mind elements of long-dried concentrated fruit and nut, damson, even smoke. The tannins are initially dusty, but a splash of water adds a fresh potpourri perfume. Is it expensive? For something that's spent 50 years in a cask? No, it isn't. (937 bottles)
£1800

—Vol. 25, #3